Номономо. June 20тн. 1887. For the greater part of the past week much inconvenience has been caused by a strike of the licensed chair bearers, which as yet shows no signs of-coming to an end. Fortunately the jinrickshu coolies have not joined in the strike, and as it is possible to The LIST OF RESIDENTS now contains get up to most of the higher levels in jinrickshas if detours be made in search of the more gentle gradients, while these conveyexclusion of chairs along Queen's-road, the inconvenience has not been so great as it would have been before the introduction of the man-power carriage. The inconvenience makes itself felt very sensibly, however, while the men on strike are on their part losing their livelihood. It is desirable, therefore, that the strike should be brought to an end as soon as possible. The Government bas the support of the majority of the European community in the s.m. attitude of firmness it has taken up, and we have beard more than one resident express his readiness to do without chairs all the summer ratherthan sees giving-in policy adopted. Those who keep private chairs are, of course, not inconvenienced in any way, and are not interested except in seeing the Government maintain its authority. A policy of firmness at noon yesterday for this port. is undoubtedly necessary in governing Asiatics. But justice ought to go hand in hand with firmness, and in this case the Scales of Commissions and Charges adopted by Leonlies maintain they are not being treated inside. They are at all events entitled to a hearing. As our readers are aware, the difficulty has arisen from a new regulation issued by the Government requiring all Shanghai on the 12th instant, say that the silk licensed bearers and drivers of vehicles to be market was in a state of panic and quite demorahaving commercial or political relations with the | photographed. The object of the regulation is to prevent the transfer or sale of licences, which, it is alleged, has been going on very week ending the 11th June, of which five were extensively. The jinricksha coolies have submitted to the regulation without raising any serious objection: The chair coolies to man refuse. The question naturally sulting about the revision of the treaties now arises-Why, if the jinricksha coolies are willing to be photographed, should the chair coolies decline? The explanation, as we understand, is this. The jinrickshas are not usually the property of the drivers. One man will own perhaps twenty or thirty of these vehicles, and he lets them out to the licensed drivers at much per day. There are five hundred jin. Ordinance and the Ordinance for the naturalisa. The proprietors therefore never have any difficulty in finding drivers, as there is always a full supply of duly licensed men of the 50th anniversary of Her Most Gracions the fiftieth anniversary of Her Majesty's access whether the requirements of Section 13 had been ready to take the place of those who may be Majesty's accession to the throne. sick or absent, each vehicle usually having H.M.S. Merlin returned to Shanghai on the men; the chairs are generally the property | the 12th having been outside surveying. of the bearers themselves; and there are only double the number of bearers licensed that there are chairs. Consequently, if one of the bearers falls sick, or if he wants to go will be held at 9.30 o'clock, in the forencen, to home to the country for a short time, he which all Freemasons will be invited, and the must either find a substitute or his foldi must also cease work and the earnings of

They claim, therefore, that it is necessary for the conduct of their business that they should be allowed to engage substitutes from time to time, and as the object of photographing them is to pre- narrow-gauge light-weight railway of eighty vent any but licensed bearers carrying chairs, they object to the regulation in toto and re- and presents no natural difficulties, except the fuseto take out licences on the new conditions, Such is the case of the chair coolies, and it must be admitted, we think, that there is something in it. On the other hand, the Government, we believe, while rightly determined to put down the unauthorised transfar of licences and to keep the power in its hands of fixing on the responsible men, viz., the legitimate holders of licences, are willing to allow substitutes when circumstances render their employment necessary. Such being the state of affairs, nothing but a little tact is wanting to bring about an arrangement, and that without any loss of dignity on either side. And it may be remarked in passing that the coolies have so far behaved remarkably well. Some hundreds of menhave been thrown out of work for several days, but they have taken it with the greatest good humour, and not a single case i of disorderly conduct has thus far been and by, when their means are exhausted and they begin to get hungry their disposition parties go up to the Police Station to notify the fact, and in keeping a registry of the consideration. The time for which it should be lawful to employ a substitute might be limited, and on the expiration of that time the substitute might be required to take out a licence for himsell if his principal had not returned. Some such arrangement would, we think, meet the case; and if the principle of the employment of substitutes be once admitted there ought to be no great difficulty in arranging the details. As to the dignity of the Government, we fail to see that there would be any loss of it by modifying regulations which it has been found would inflict unnecessary and unin ended hardship.

Goods not taken delivery of from the ship's side are usually stored at consignee's risk and expense and are not covered by insurance. It certainly seems a foolhardy proceeding to leave a large quantity insurance even for twenty-four hours. Naturally the insurance ought to be paid for by the owners of the goods, but it would be the more convenient course for the godownkeeper to effect the insurance, apportioning livery was taken. The 9 Manchas considered this a disgrace, and they went first to the two divisional officers to ask them to intercede with the Tarter General not to have the sentence carried into effect. The officers refused to comply with this request and thereupon their Tamens were attacked and partially pulled down. The mob then went to the General's Yamen, about thousand men and women, in a state of great excitement and demanded the release of the two men. This was refused, and thereupon showers of stones were thrown into the Yamen. Finally the mob was dispersed without any more serious damage being done, but discontent runs high. THE DECAY OF BODILY STRENGTH IN TOWNS.

Others besides Lord Brabazon must bave remarked the steady flow of population which has set in, especially of late years, from the country districts to the towns, and must have asked themselves, as they reflected on the figure, endless dedges and mysteries, not changed conditions, the high working pressure with intermissions of enforced idleness. and the unwholesome home life which awaited many of those immigrants, how far in the ways and wiles of mankind compared with end the nation would be a gainer by the the subtle tricks, machinations, and maniinterminable process. So long as our manu. pulations that make a "leading lady" of facturing and shipping industries continue the present date a thing of beauty, and a joy, to maintain a fair measure of prosperity if not for ever, for at least as long as may be there is little likelihood that the influx into flippantly, but with latruly, of Nature, that— SACCONE'S SHERRY, PORT, the towns will be seriously checked. The inthe towns will be seriously checked. Its influence for good or evil on the physical state of our people must therefore great ly depend upon our securing for them in their changed mode of life the surroundings necessary for healthy development. would be difficult to show by precise statistics how far the work of degeneration has progressed among our poorer urban population. For our own part, we are not disposed to accept, without due scrutiny, any random ularmist rumours as to a progressive shortcoming in the national vigour. It must however, be generally allowed that until a recent date little care has been taken to pro-_tect the poorer inhabitants of our cities against the evils of overwork, overcrowding. mismanagement in household arrangements and in food and drink, and other insanitary conditions to which they are almost necessarily subject; and if this negligence be allowed to continue, the logic of facts will not Eve. But in the delicate and sweet affections fail to convince us of a suicidal error. There is therefore good reason why schemes now on foot for the better housing of the poor, the better allotment of working time, and plans of the darker and more desperate passionslike these tend to healthy living should not in scenes, whether real, or the breation of want substantial support. We would also draw attention to the great importance of triumphant, -Globe. care in the physical training of children, by rendering gymnastic exercises a compulsory part of education, and we are reminded | OOKBINDING IN ALL ITS BRANCHES by another article in the Ninsteenth | D Century that sufficient attention has not been paid to the necessity for leaving here and there in districts extensively built upon open spaces for public recreation. Where common land is not available, it might well become in the Legislature to order the allotment of certain portions of enclosed land for this purposes.—Lancet.

DESDEMONA THE FIRST.

The study of primeyal man, and especially woman, must often give to the modern mind in its reflective mood much pause. In these times, what is complemently called high civilisation and the art of living have, by force of soft and insinuating habit, created various unreal requirements, and multiplied. and exaggerated our needs in food and dress and appliances; simplicity, moved by a false sense of shame, arrays herself in superfluous raiment, and the once accepted proposition that "man wants but little here below" must yield to the truth, patent to all, that he now wants very much indeed, and that he wants it on a scale of exceeding fineness and largeness. The Adonis of today wonders how, without any artistic helps from Rathbone-place, his ancient forefather, a Pict or Briton, contrived to make of himself a"note" in blue or red, an "arrangement" or a "harmony" in belitting bues. The latter-day Venue, as she toys with her ivorybacked brushes, and surveys with her handglass the exquisite disposition of her occipital chevelure, is at a loss to conjecture how maids and matrons prehistoric did their back hair, and solved even the most elementary problems of the toilet. The flints in the drift are interesting as meeting some of the minor difficulties in the earliest experiences of our race, but as for their affording a full explanation, counsel might | Particular attention is given at the Establish as well be taken with the milestones on the ment to COMMERCIAL and GENERAL JOB Dover-road.
